Why Do You Consider Yourself Deserving Of An MDC Scholarship?

I would like to convince you that I deserve an MDC Scholarship. I understand that I cannot be eligible for receiving a scholarship merely on account of being devoted to the nursing profession and advancing in my studies. I study alongside with my fellow students, a great number of whom are as committed to their career vocation and academically successful as I am. I would like to argue right to the MDC Scholarship from the social standpoint. Presently, I try to fully devote myself to studies in order to become a competent practicing nurse. However, I do not have parents to financially support me through my learning period. I work full time and take extra work in order to earn a living. Sometimes I get so tired that I cannot concentrate on the studies and sometimes I am forced to sacrifice the scope of my training in order to manage my current job requirements. I am struggling with my time management but when I fail it reflects upon my studies.

A scholarship would allow me to regain my work-life balance, dedicate more time to my studies and perfect in my academic results. This opportunity will increase my chances of becoming a trained and skilled nurse. I am sure that my future patients would appreciate extensive professional knowledge that I would be able to apply while performing my everyday duties. My future employers would also benefit from having an accomplished, committed and competent nurse in their team. It would also maximize my chances for a higher salary within the framework of the pay-for-performance system. By building a firm foundation of basic knowledge in the field of nursing, I intend to pave the road for further professional development and apply to FIU or UM university to get a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN).

By endowing me with an MDC Scholarship today, you are contributing to my formation as a nursing professional and my future social security.
